

Gen Ed Assessment Reflection Guide

I submitted assessment data, and I received my report. Now what?

Read

Need help? Watch this video for more information on how to read your instructor-level assessment report.

Reflect

Reports can help us reflect on and improve the classroom tools and strategies that facilitate student success. In reflecting on your report, you might consider the 3 C's:

- Context: What was going on that semester in the university? In the world?
- Change: Did you implement anything new that semester?
- Challenges: Were there any roadblocks for students that you noticed throughout the semester?

You might also consider learning outcomes as individual units and in relation to each other.

Need help? Watch this video for more information on how to interpret and use your instructor-level assessment report.

Act

Attend a GEOC workshop to learn more about the assessment process.

Attend OTL sessions to help think through pedagogical challenges and build skills with colleagues.

Participate in a GEOC Instructor Engagement Session to help us identify opportunities for support.

Share your goals and strategies with the GEOC by completing the survey that accompanied your report, and let us know how we can best support you.

